Protect yourself and others

Shortly after the start of the COVID-19 pandemic, many countries increased hygiene and safety standards in all public areas. Several of the standards include wearing a face mask to cover nose and mouth in public areas like public transportation, schools, grocery stores and shopping centers.

Different types of Face Masks

The German Federal Institute for Drugs & Medicinal Products distinguishes the following mask types:

1. Community Mask

Synonyms: DIY Mask
Use: private use only
Medical product: no
Certification: no

2. Medical Face Mask

Synonyms: surgical- / operation masks
Use: protecting others
Medical product: yes
Certification: CE certified
Norm DIN EN 14683:19

Community Mask

In the current situation, hygiene and protection are more important than ever before. These community masks are made from commercially available materials, only for private use to cover nose and mouth in public areas like public transportation, schools, grocery stores and shopping centres.

Wearing a community mask helps protecting other people from fine droplets and particles that are expelled when speaking, coughing or sneezing.

A mask is a supporting device to protect others, but nevertheless respect the distance and hygiene regulations.

Application

Wash hands thoroughly, using soap, before and after wearing face mask.

Cover mouth and nose and pull the retaining bands over your ears.

Press the nose pad down so that the mask fits well.

Pull the mask down as far as your chin, and adjust it until your mouth and nose are fully covered.

Please wear each mask only once and then dispose of it with waste.
